It doesn't pay to breach your licence conditions.

Restricted drivers are 10 times more likely to die if carrying passengers

The consequences

- ✗ Each time you are caught breaching the conditions of your licence the Police can extend the time you must wait to get the next stage of your licence by up to 6 months.
- ✗ If you have a crash while breaching the terms of your licence your insurer is unlikely to pay for the damage to your car or any other car.
- ✗ You will also incur demerit points and can be fined up to $1000.

Do the right thing; drive within your licence conditions!

- ✓ Familiarise yourself with the terms of your licence and stay offense free.
- ✓ Book driving lessons with a professional instructor to help build your confidence.
- ✓ Take part in a Defensive Driving course so you're equipped to handle tricky situations.
- ✓ Move through the licensing stages so you're poised to take advantage of career opportunities.
